1. On October 12, Hart County Archway hosted our annual community update luncheon to share our projects and accomplishments from the past year. Fifty-seven community members attended including members of the various Archway committees as well as elected officials. Nine community members spoke about highlighted projects from each of our four priority areas: leadership development, education, planning & visioning for the future, and tourism. An executive committee member facilitated a discussion including community feedback about what Archway can improve and what is going well.

2. On October 14, a group of Hart County Archway Executive Committee members met on campus with faculty members from UGA Engineering. The group discussed possible avenues for partnership and collaboration between Hart County and faculty and students in the various engineering majors. This is the first formal interaction between UGA Engineering and an Archway Community.

3. On September 23rd, Hart County Archway and Ty Cobb Healthcare partnered to host 15 incoming MPH students from UGA’s College of Public Health. Local public health professionals from Ty Cobb Healthcare, the Hart County Health Department, and Hart County Government shared their experiences with the students and answered questions. Ty Cobb Healthcare COO Jerry Wise also gave the group a hardhat tour of the new Ty Cobb Regional Healthcare Center, which is currently under construction. This is the 3rd year that Ty Cobb Healthcare has hosted MPH students.
