1. City of Tennille hosted content expert Howard Gibson, City of Rome Building Official, to discuss how to more effectively utilize ordinances to address blighted, dilapidated and abandoned properties in the city.

2. University of Georgia Management Information Systems (MIS) students working on Washington County website development provided first draft to county offices and community party Cogentes.

3. Local community representative and Family Connections Director became engaged in the Social Resource Inventory project as a consultant and ultimately partner in compiling data and developing action plan.